

Artist Larry Winborg makes collage of Mormon memories

PROVO — Utah artist Larry Winborg has added yet another dimension to the pioneer sesquicentennial with a montage of scenes in one painting titled "Faith in Every Footstep."

The 48-inch-by-60-inch oil painting has been reproduced as a full-color poster, available at LDS book outlets in either 16-inch-by-20-inch or 24-inch-by-30-inch sizes. They cost $4 and $5, respectively.

"I wanted to be as historically accurate as possible," said the artist in describing the planning and research that went into the painting. "We owe it to the pioneers to honor them with our very best effort."

So, he researched pioneer journals and enlisted the aid of costume historian Carma deJong Anderson, of Provo, in getting the clothing right. Without photographs of the event 150 years ago, "we had to create these things from thin air," the artists said.

The committee was pleased with the result.

"Winborg's depiction is more than historically accurate," says a press release from the LDS

Church Public Affairs Department.

"It's a monumental tribute to the people who gave more than their lives for a cause in which they believed."

"My aim was to create a piece of art that would cover the entire spectrum of the pioneer movement," said Winborg, who has over the past seven years also designed plates with LDS-related subjects such as temples and Nauvoo scenes for the Tiffany porcelain company.

But after coming up with several different images for the trek painting, he said, "I discovered it was kind of like crossing the plains: You've got to start throwing things out."

He ended up with eight scenes in the montage, representing the struggles, sacrifices and joys of the Saints who migrated west.

Among them are the first wagon train leaving Nauvoo, a portrait of Brigham Young, a family with an obviously pregnant mother beside their wagon and oxen on the Mormon Trail, a grandfather kneeling at a grave site, handcarts in a Wyoming blizzard representing the tragedy of the Willie and Martin companies, and a ship representing pioneers who came to the United States by sea.

A campfire scene with fiddling and dancing shows the Saints' happiness in spite of their struggles, said the artist. At the request of the Sesquicentennial Committee which commissioned the piece, Winborg included a scene of Ensign Peak with a flag waving — a reference to the LDS hymn "High on the Mountain Top."

He said that was the only direction he received. Other than that, "they gave me complete freedom" in creating the art.

Describing the task as difficult and complicated — especially because he was simultaneously working on four other pioneer paintings for the Sun Ranch Visitors Center in Wyoming — the artist said he feels honored to have been selected for the task.

"I felt a closeness to the pioneers while doing this painting," Winborg said. "I knew from the moment I was asked to do it that this would be the most significant painting I've ever done."

Winborg believes many LDS Church members will want to hang the poster in their homes. "It's a symbol of pioneering, whether your ancestors crossed the plains or not."

Check out your Mr. Wonderful with private eye

Dear Ann Landers: Please print this letter as a warning to women who think they have met Mr. Wonderful. Tell them to check him out. I wish I had.

Twelve years ago, I met a man I thought was the greatest. We both were divorced, and I believed everything he said because I saw no reason not to. Three months later, we were married. I was in seventh heaven.

After two years, I began to be suspicious. Several things he said didn't add up. Then, I learned he had lied to me about his marriages. He confessed that I was Wife No. 5, not Wife No. 3. We moved four times in 11 years because he never felt "comfortable" where we were. His two grown sons and two daughters, whom he had not seen in 12 years, surfaced and decided they wanted

HOROSCOPE

By EUGENIA LAST

For August 8

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Hasty decisions leading to the signing of contracts will be dead end or result in loss. Work on your home or make the changes necessary to please your loved ones, and you'll be much further ahead.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): You may find yourself getting angry over trivial matters. Try not to put the blame on others. Keep your thoughts to yourself; put your efforts into correcting mistakes.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Problems at work may be alarming. Not everyone you know will be trustworthy. Keep circumstances to yourself until you're completely sure of who you can and who you can't confide in.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): You can get to the bottom of problems if you take the time to talk to the individuals involved. You should try to finish up some of those creative projects that you have left dangling.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Be prepared for any opposition that you encounter. Family members may not be happy with the amount of hours you have been spending at work. It's time to please the ones who count.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): You may be a little absent-minded when it comes to transportation or keeping appointments. Be sure to write everything down that's important.

Susquehanna House, by Larry Winborg

Shortly after obtaining the gold plates, Joseph and Emma Smith went to Harmony, Pennsylvania, to escape persecution. They lived with Emma's family for a time, then purchased 13½ acres of land and a home from Emma's father. Joseph and Emma cleaned the house to make it livable, and there the Prophet resumed his translation of the plates.
